Buttons & Navigation

Introduction

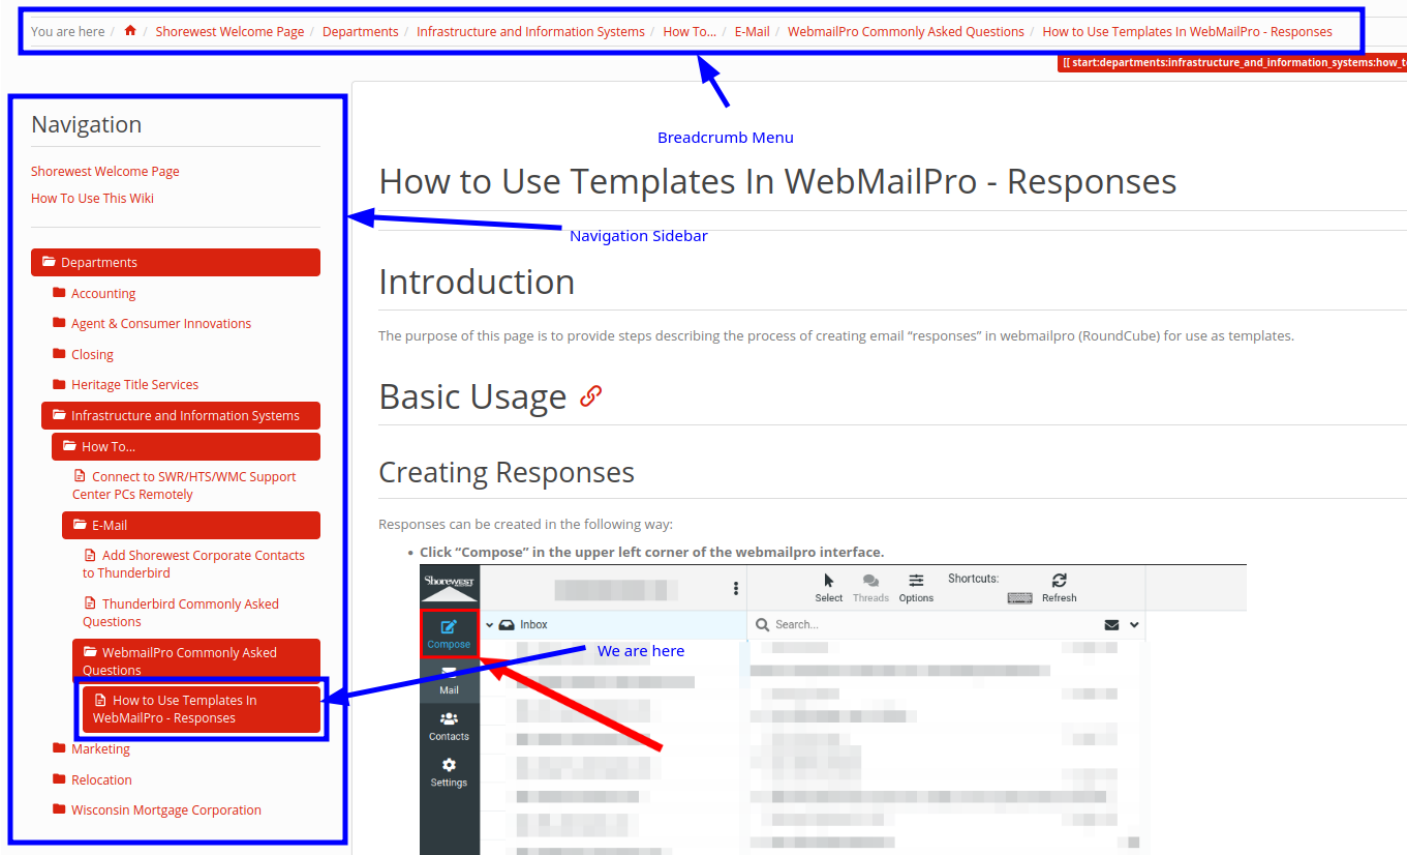

This page is provided to give an overview of the navigation and buttons of the Shorewest Wiki

General Navigation

First and foremost are the ways you can get back to the start page. If you ever get lost in the Wiki, you can always navigate back to the main page by clicking the little house icon in the top left corner or by clicking the “Shorewest Welcome Page” at the top of the navigation sidebar:

Most of the navigation in the wiki is done by drilling down the heirarchy using built in menus. The sidebar will keep track of where you are and provide a quick way back up to another page or parent page. You can also use the breadcrumb menu at the top of the screen:

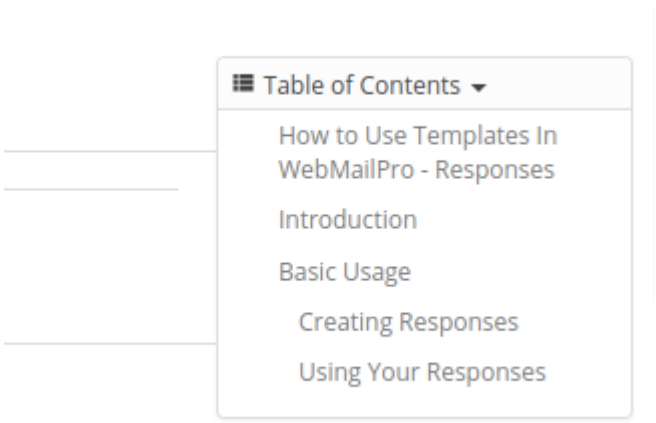

Buttons & Menus

There are a few buttons that are useful to know while you are browsing, editing, or otherwise using the wiki

Table Of Contents Menu

The table of contents, if available for a page, appears in the top right corner of the page. When you are at the top of a page, if the page has headers, it is automatically expanded:

As you go down the page it will automatically hide until you expand it again. Once you expand it again, it will stay expanded until you shrink it again as long as you are on that page.

If the table of contents is expanded, it will keep track of where you are using the page progress indicator:
